1 INTRODUCTION

Bob Dylan turned 70 and a lot of books and tributes were published. New books as well as updated editions of almost all the standard biographies appeared. The 24th year of The Never Ending Tour continued and swept through three new countries and 14 new cities in The Far East, Australia, New Zealand, Europe and the US with 89 new shows. Same band, same songs, only 5 songs were not played last year. No live debuts, no covers. Still Dylan managed to breath new life in many songs with inspired performances and the shows generally got great reviews.

4 TO MY FANS AND FOLLOWERS

Allow me to clarify a couple of things about this so-called China controversy which has been going on for over a year. First of all, we were never denied permission to play in China. This was all drummed up by a Chinese promoter who was trying to get me to come there after playing Japan and Korea. My guess is that the guy printed up tickets and made promises to certain groups without any agreements being made. We had no intention of playing China at that time, and when it didn't happen most likely the promoter had to save face by issuing statements that the Chinese Ministry had refused permission for me to play there to get himself off the hook. If anybody had bothered to check with the Chinese authorities, it would have been clear that the Chinese authorities were unaware of the whole thing.

We did go there this year under a different promoter. According to Mojo magazine the concerts were attended mostly by ex-pats and there were a lot of empty seats. Not true. If anybody wants to check with any of the concert-goers they will see that it was mostly Chinese young people that came. Very few ex-pats if any. The ex-pats were mostly in Hong Kong not Beijing. Out of 13,000 seats we sold about 12,000 of them, and the rest of the tickets were given away to orphanages. The Chinese press did tout me as a sixties icon, however, and posted my picture all over the place with Joan Baez, Che Guevara, Jack Kerouac and Allen Ginsberg. The concert attendees probably wouldn't have known about any of those people. Regardless, they responded enthusiastically to the songs on my last 4 or 5 records. Ask anyone who was there. They were young and my feeling was that they wouldn't have known my early songs anyway.

As far as censorship goes, the Chinese government had asked for the names of the songs that I would be playing. There's no logical answer to that, so we sent them the set lists from the previous 3 months. If there were any songs, verses or lines censored, nobody ever told me about it and we played all the songs that we intended to play.

Everybody knows by now that there's a gazillion books on me either out or coming out in the near future. So I'm encouraging anybody who's ever met me, heard me or even seen me, to get in on the action and scribble their own book. You never know, somebody might have a great book in them.

5 NEW RELEASES AND RECORDINGS

5.1 Studs Terkel's Wax Museum

The radio performance from 26 April 1963 released in the UK, 2 May 2011 on Left Field Media LFMCD 504. For details please refer to the corresponding session page.

5.2 The Lost Notebooks of Hank Williams

A new collection of previously unheard songs by the country great recorded by artists such as Bob Dylan, Jack White, Norah Jones and Levon Helm. The set was originally conceived by veteran A&R executive Mary Martin as a Dylan-centric project, but eventually evolved into a multi-artist tribute to the late singer-songwriter. The songs featured were rescued from notebooks left behind in a leather briefcase by Williams after he died in 1953 at the age of 29. The notes contained lyrics and song ideas that were finished by the 13 artists who contributed to the disc.

Tracks:

Alan Jackson	You've Been Lonesome, Too
Bob Dylan	The Love That Faded
Norah Jones	How Many Times Have You Broken My Heart?
Jack White	You Know That I Know
Lucinda Williams	I'm So Happy I Found You
Vince Gill and Rodney Crowell	I Hope You Shed a Million Tears
Patty Loveless	You're Through Fooling Me
Levon Helm	You'll Never Again Be Mine

Jakob Dylan	Oh, Mama, Come Home
Sheryl Crow	Angel Mine
Merle Haggard	The Sermon on the Mount

Recording location, date and backing musicians were not known at the time of writing.

Released on Bob Dylan's label Egyptian Records 88697090102, 3 October 2011.
